KCSB was established in 1962 as a low-power FM radio station by Bill Harrison in UCSB's Anacapa Hall, and in 1964 it became the first UC station to be officially licensed by the FCC as a noncommercial, educational broadcaster. KCSB airs a free-form lineup of eclectic music, public affairs, and cultural arts programs, as well as daily news and sports casts. Our signal covers a 75-mile radius with over 100 volunteer programmers producing live content 24/7.

KCSB. It's just plain good for you."

WRITER FOR THE SB INDEPENDENT, AND DOWNBEAT MAGAZINE

HISTORY

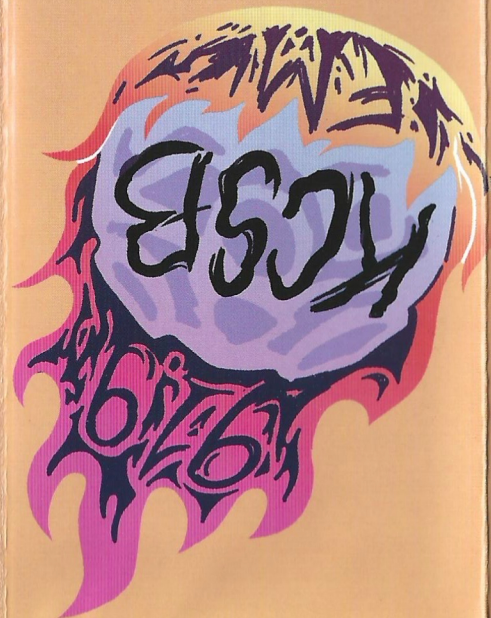

KCSB is Santa Barbara's only full-power independent community radio station that is student-led and operated. We're located under Storke Tower in the heart of UCSB's campus right next to the turtles and Koi fish pond.

ABOUT KCSB-FM

MISSION AND CONTENT

We champion the values of independent journalism and freedom of expression. During the 1970 Isla Vista protests – sparked by opposition to the Vietnam War, anti-corporatism, slum conditions, and over-policing – and the burning of the Bank of America, KCSB was taken off the air for "contributing to civil unrest." To this day we are the only licensed US radio station ever to be shut down by police. That historic moment epitomizes our promise to amplify community voices and to protect free speech.

This commitment to grassroots communication remains vitally important today. As a non-commercial, educational FM radio broadcaster, KCSB is not beholden to commercial interests and strives to create content in the public interest that is substantially different from that carried by commercial broadcast media. KCSB's emphasis on providing a forum for underreported news and public affairs programming places an emphasis on providing a forum for underreported cultural arts and music programming cover a wide spectrum of expression ranging from traditional to experimental.

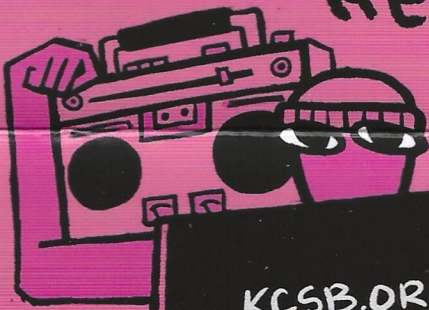

The overall success of the station is very heart warming for me to read about every so often. Please pass on my congratulations to all of the staff for the great teamwork that results in the service you all are doing as creative broadcasters serving a phenomenal campus and tri-county community."
- BILL HARRISON, FOUNDER OF KCSB
